Shopping consignment has become all the rage! Gone are the days when consignment shopping was your own little secret. It is now a shopping experience that has become trendy and mainstream. There is a level of excitement that is obtained when you find that fabulous handbag, designer jacket, or a quality bedroom set for pennies on the dollar. You just can't get that feeling when you pay full retail in any other store. So what is consignment anyways you are probably wondering?

Consignment stores provide a way for people to sell their quality belongings that still have broad appeal as well as a place for people to shop for that unique piece of clothing, accessory, furniture or home décor. As a consignor, you are able to recoup some of your initial expense by receiving 40% - 50% of the sale price when your items sell. You usually have an option to receive in-store credit for some really fun guilt-free retail therapy shopping or a check at the end of the month for any items that sold that month. Some people fund their whole family summer vacations by consigning throughout the year! Consigning your items is much easier than taking a whole weekend sitting out in your hot driveway holding a yard sale or listing your items on Craig's List and having strangers show up at your home, or worse yet, trying to figure out how to place your items on E-bay...ugh. Consignment eliminates all the hassles, worries, and headaches and lets you spend precious time with family!

If you are down sizing, de-cluttering, or have fluctuated in weight and have changed dress sizes or just want to re-style your home, consignment is the way to go. At Fabulous Finds, you will find a relaxing "Boutique" experience with a welcoming atmosphere where the customer service is better than Nordstrom's or Macy's. We are the only consignment store to offer both clothing and accessories as well as furniture, fine art, and home decor. Come see what's abuzz on the west side of Longmont and afford yourself a little guilt-free retail therapy!
